GENERAL MARCH'S FORECAST.

It is a fortunate thing that the people of the United States have in General Peyton C. March a chief of staff of the army who is unquestionably qualified for the important position and an official who deals with gratifying frankness with members of Congress and the newspaper correspondents at Washington and through them with the country as a whole. General March indulges no fancies. He wisely waits until the facts are known and then gives them to the public without Creolian embellishment.

This method of calm dealing with facts and the actualities of a situation has enabled General March to make some correct forecasts. When the Franco-American troops under General Mangin last July attacked the German lines between Fontenoy and Chateau Thierry railroad, General March said the Germans would fall back from the Marne toward the Vesle and abandon Soissons. This forecast was based on accurate information as to the situation within the Soissons-Marne-Rheims triangle and the knowledge that the loss of the railroad made the area untenable for the enemy.

A few days after the ally offensive on July 18th General March said Field Marshal Foch had taken the initiative and would keep it. Subsequent events have verified his analysis, which was in reality a translation of his abundant expert information regarding the German situation. He knew that the German commanders would not be in a position for a long time to come to wrest the initiative from the allies.

General March told the Senate military affairs committee, in explaining why the draft ages should be extended, that an army of 4,000,000 men in France by next June could break through the German lines and win a decisive victory, making peace in 1919 a possibility. He did not mean to say that an American army of this size would make decisive defeat of the Central Powers next year absolutely certain, but he did intend to say the vital factor of such a contingency would thus be introduced into the military situation. He implied that we could not count on overwhelming the foe in 1919 with a smaller effort.

Plainly it is up to the American people to see to it that an army of 4,000,000 men is in France by next June; to provide not only the men, but the supplies of food, clothing, arms, and munitions necessary to give maximum efficiency to an army of 4,000,000.

To meet these requirements is the reason for the fourth Liberty Loan which is to be issued during the three weeks beginning September 28. From six to eight billion dollars must be raised within the next few months. The people must loan the government the money on the government's interest-bearing securities.

Get ready for the loan campaign now. Prepare to buy your bonds early and resolve to buy to the limit of your ability. It would be unwise to count on the war ending next year, but unless the people meet promptly and completely the nation's need of financial assistance there will not be even a chance of peace next year. The coming loan will be the biggest the government has attempted to float. It calls for extra effort. Be ready to give it.

WHEN THEY ARE CORNERED.

Hohenzollern Crown Prince Friedrich Wilhelm goes to Vienna and explains that 1914 was to Germany an unfavorable time to start a world-murdering program; he asserts that Germany is only trying to defend herself against her enemies, trying to forestall overwhelming defeat.

Hohenzollern Kaiser Wilhelm formally notifies the German people that the "high command" has unanimously decided to defend the "beloved fatherland and kulture" against the cruel enemies. Whining in high places and whining in low places. A weird, doleful prelude to a crooked peace plea, with the hope to Bolshevize the Allies after the fashion of Brest-Litovsk.

Germany has emulated the traits of many despicable animals during the last four years, but has fallen short of imitating the virtues of the rat. A rat cornered will fight; Germany, through her military leaders and her Pan-German statesmen, her professors, clergymen and editors, cringes and cries hypocritically, "We are blameless for the crimes we have committed during these last four years."

The people who sunk the Lusitania and who glorified that and other barbarities feign indignation that the Americans use sawed-off shotguns to guard Hun prisoners; they indignantly cry that the use of tanks is ungentlemanly, because a Prussian officer cannot with dignity surrender to a machine. If an honest man had to choose between the soul of a sawed-off shotgun, an armored tank or a Prussian officer he would make the officer third choice!

That the moving Ally lines in the west shatter each Prussian lie the day it is uttered must be a disturbing thought to the kaiser and his desperate leaders and hangers-on.

AN AMERICAN PRAYER.

Although the following prayer by Rev. Henry N. Couden, chaplain of the House of Representatives, was offered solely for the benefit of members of Congress it is appropriate for any man or woman who prays:

Good Lord, deliver us from the hyphenated American, the pro-German, the spy, the profiteer, the pacifist, the slacker, and all who would retard the prosecution of the war for human rights, human happiness, in the establishment of a permanent, world-wide peace; for Christ's sake, Amen.

Oregon being bone dry, there has arisen a complication in the christening of ships. According to sailor tradition, a vessel is not sent into its element right unless a bottle of champagne is cracked over its bows as it slides down the ways. In Portland they have sought to meet the emergency by substituting milk. But milk, besides being messy, falls far short of impressing the sailor as such substitute. It does not remove the superstition that obsesses the man who goes down to the sea in ships. It is likely to be held responsible for any untoward experience that befalls the ship or its crew. Nevertheless, suggestions have been made to the National Shipping Board that milk be officially adopted for ship christening at all yards. It is going to be difficult even for landlubbers to enthrone over a craft on its way to the water with lacteal fluid streaming over its prow, as though an accident had happened in the purveying department.

It is interesting to read that delegates from eleven Rhine towns have met in conclave and solemnly resolved to appeal at Hun headquarters that some agreement be made with the Allies to abstain from attacking open towns. The move is altogether late. When not so much was feared in the way of reprisal there was no German convocation to protest against bomb-dropping on English and French towns and cities. In fact, that and other tactics of the kind seemed to be approved and enjoyed over the Rhine. This action proves what has been claimed—that the Hun is unable to understand any tactics but his own. For a long time retaliation in kind was resisted for humane reasons. It is now seen that this was a mistake, that it made no impression. The Rhine towns will not now be spared if a real impression is to be made on the Hun at large.

HOUSING IN GREAT BRITAIN

One of the most important as well as one of the most urgent domestic questions in the United Kingdom at the present time is undoubtedly that of housing. For more than three years the building of houses has been practically suspended throughout the country. Thus, not only has the normal demand for new houses not been met, but the repair and maintenance of those already existing has been a question surrounded with ever increasing difficulty. The housing problem is, of course, not a new problem, and it is most emphatically not entirely a war problem, for the supply of houses was quite inadequate before the war. The war has, indeed, only accentuated a difficulty which has long existed. This is especially the case in rural districts, and the system which has obtained, in many cases, of making the tenure of a certain house or cottage contingent on employment on a certain farm, has led not only to many hardships, but to many abuses.

In these circumstances it is well known to find that the matter is, at last, being taken up with a whole-hearted determination to carry something definite into effect, and the scheme outlined by Mr. Hayes Fisher, parliamentary secretary to the local government board, in the British House of Commons some time ago, has all those advantages which will necessarily accrue from dealing with such an eminently national subject on a broad national basis.

Briefly, Mr. Fisher's proposals provide for the building of 300,000 new houses on the basis of a partnership system between the state and the local authorities, the state to provide 75 percent on any deficit on local authorities have shown their willingness to acquiesce in the scheme, already the provision of 150,000 houses seems to be assured.

This is, of course, all to the good, but those who have any acquaintance with the housing question would welcome an even more pronounced note of urgency, made evident by some far-reaching measure to secure the necessary land, with the least possible delay and at a just cost. In a country like the United Kingdom, with its complicated land titles, the very essence of change in regard to which is slowness and dilatoriness, the authorities need to assume powers of making short cuts, and of reducing legal proceedings to a minimum.

The whole virtue of such proposals as those advanced by Mr. Hayes Fisher lies, of course, in the putting of them into effect, and much in the spirit as well as in the letter. The history of the question, during the last few decades, presents many instances of carefully thought out plans, rendered practically inoperative through the inaction or actual opposition of local authorities and other bodies. There ought to be no repetition of this history. The question of profit and loss ought to take second subsidiary place. The profit, indeed, of good housing to the community cannot be reckoned in balance sheets, or gauged, with any justice, on the usual financial basis. Good housing has good profit in a thousand ways, and the war, which has certainly broadened the general outlook in the matter of expenditure, ought finally to dissipate the cry of impending "national bankruptcy," whenever the government proposes some reform involving any considerable national expenditure. In a word, the housing question is an urgent question, and urgent needs demand attention.—Christian Science Monitor.

NOTES and COMMENT

"Ray Baker may be envoy to Great Britain." Considering the magical experiences of this remarkable Californian, this would not overwhelmingly surprise Californians.

The British official statement as to the capture or destruction of German U-boats is interesting. Record has been kept of 150 of the most infamous commanders. The statement is to the effect that the authors of particularly atrocious crimes have explained them immediately after their commission. "The names of such men are carefully noted by the British Admiralty, and special endeavors are made to bring their active careers swiftly to an end." It is a grim way of putting it.

Direct from the Federal brigade, via the Woodland Democrat: "Now that we appear to be disfranchised we will try to make a new grip on things, but science admonishes us not to spit on our hands."

"Hun outrages evoke protest from Dutch." The countries which are close up and overmatched can do little now but protest, but there are evidences that the time is approaching when the neighborhood bully will receive his quietus.

The German Chancellor resigns his post, citing the hackneyed reason of ill-health. From recent happenings there is some ground to believe that he has such a headache.

There may have been some wonder as to what is done with all the prisoners taken by the allies. The chances are they are not much trouble. They are free from Hun abuse and get things to eat, which latter is something they appear to have been shy of until they were captured. The accounts indicate that they are not quarrelling with such conditions.

A heading inquires, "What is the cause of the big advance in egg prices?" The public that eats eggs will give it up. But it would approve a Federal inquiry into the boost of all food commodities. And if it were shown that the said boosts were legitimate, it is pretty certain there would not be cavil.

One of the most interesting announcements in connection with the forthcoming land show is that Luther Burbank will prepare an exhibit. His latest evolution of grains will be shown, many specimens of which exceed standard varieties in yield.

Life is just one drive after another. The surgeon's effort supplemented by the Elks' effort in behalf of the Salvation Army. And all such enterprises are worthy and to be encouraged by those whose safety here depends on the efficiency of the boys who are on the firing line over there.

The Woodland Democrat is in a mood to joke about it. "Mayor Ralph, the mayor of the Democratic party of California, has arrived, but the crown does not become him."

The Colusa Sun notes the jocund spirit: "There seems a pride in the hearts of these workers by machinery, these tillers of the soil that gives them a worth that does not bring fish from the pay alone that is to be made from them for the hours they have labored and the efforts to bring to mankind food and raiment."

"Visalia school to teach tractor work." A very useful accomplishment, but the necessary paraphernalia would be cumbersome for an ordinary school to carry.

The man who would not stand up when "Star Spangled Banner" was played and explained that he lived on the interest of his money, none of which was invested in Liberty bonds, should be hurried over to the land where he would be appreciated.

SPIRIT OF THE STATE PRESS

A painful injury was suffered by O. D. Byrne on Sunday morning, when he had the big toe on his left foot shot away while on a deer hunting trip near Esparto. He was crawling under a barb wire fence when his gun was discharged.—Woodland Mail.

Congressman Hayes enters the coming election with 12,697 votes, against Sherman with 5374, the Johnson vote being 7612, and which is Republican. Where will it go in November? For Congressmen, Republicans usually vote their party ticket, although their personal choice was snowed under at the primary.—Santa Cruz Sentinel.

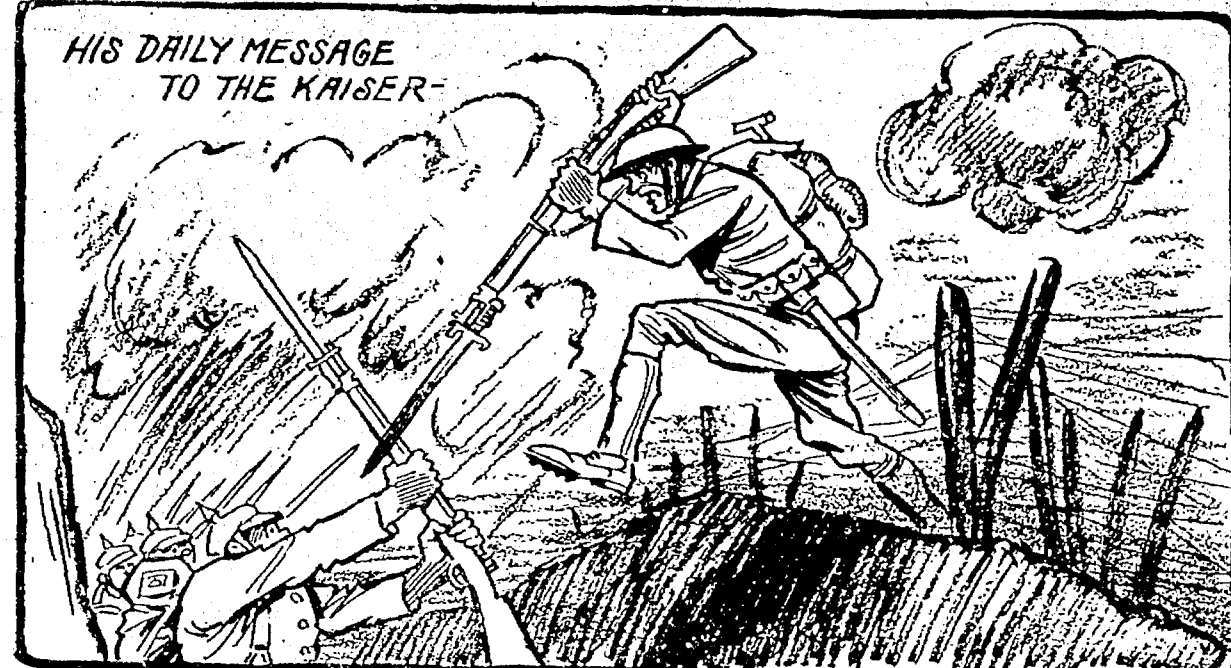

Of course, the only logical way out of this whole primary election law muddle is the non-partisan primary system which the people of California, or such few of them as voted, have already twice rejected by referendum. On the face of it, it would seem that the people of California reject the theory, but demand the fact of non-partisan primaries.—Fresno Republican.

The San Clemente anglers are to be complimented. Not a fish has been sent to Avalon so far this season that was not used for food. Fish not required for competition in the Tuna Club tournament have been given their liberty after the hook had been removed from the mouth. In instances where the fish had swallowed the hook, the leader was placed, as close as possible to the fish, so that it would not hamper its movements in the water.—Avalon Islander.

WEATHER REPORT

Forecast.
Oakland and vicinity: Tonight and Sunday cloudy; gentle southwesterly winds.
Northern California: Tonight and Sunday unsettled weather; probably showers this afternoon and tonight, cooler interior Sunday; gentle southwesterly winds.
Southern California: Tonight and Sunday unsettled, probably showers in the mountains tonight; gentle southwesterly winds.
The three valleys: Tonight and Sunday unsettled weather, probably showers this afternoon and tonight, cooler Sunday; light southerly winds.
Nevada: Probably showers and cooler.
Washington and Oregon: Increasing cloudiness, cooler Sunday; gentle westerly winds.
Conditions.
A trough of low pressure over the Sierra Nevada mountains, causing generally cloudy and unsettled weather over the entire Pacific slope and sprinkles of rain are reported in the Sacramento valley and northern Nevada. An area of high pressure covers the country east of the Rocky mountains, giving fair weather in the plains states and cloudy weather east of the Mississippi river. It is warmer in the plateau region and cooler on the New England coast.
Conditions are unsettled in the southern portion of this district and scattered showers are probable this afternoon and tonight in California and Nevada.

TODAY 20 YEARS AGO

After Rev. Barton Perry of San Leandro had spoken twenty minutes on the desirability of holding the Republican convention in that town, he learned that on the day previous the matter had been settled favorably at an executive session of the committee.

Extensive alterations were made at the broad gauge mole by the Southern Pacific in preparation for the new twenty-minute service.

The Human Interest club held a meeting at the home of Professor and Mrs. J. C. Lemmon. H. A. Ingalls took the affirmative side and Charles Ulrich the negative in a debate on "Is Silver Money an Urgent Necessity?"

THEY'RE ALL OVER THE WORLD

Once it was stated that the sun never set on the British flag.

One year after America is in the war the sun can not set upon the American soldiers. They are in France and they are in Germany, across the border in Alsace. They are in Italy. American soldiers are in Archangel, Russia, up under the Arctic Circle. They are also in Vladivostok.

American soldiers are in the Philippines, Hawaii and Samoa. American soldiers are in Panama and one of the Central American republics. They are in Hayti and San Domingo.

When the American soldiers landed in Vladivostok and Archangel they were in the same empire, but they were 8000 miles apart.

The Arctic Circle runs a little north of Archangel.

Archangel is on an arm of the White Sea, which, before the outbreak of the present war, was thought to be frozen over almost the entire year. There is a railroad running direct down through Russia to Moscow.

After the outbreak of the war the Russians attempted to build another railroad to an open port on the Arctic Ocean. This port is called Kola and is open the year round.

Great things may come of the establishment of the American army at Archangel. The people of northern Russia are not tinged with Bolshevism. They are loyal Russians and, if properly supported, they will rally to the allies.—Memphis Commercial Appeal.

THE BOY WHO PUT THE HOME TOWN ON THE MAP

"Though I've traveled far and wide, I never yet have spied The name of my old home town on the map."
For we only had one street, Trimmed with buttercups so sweet, And in lilac-scented gardens we would nap.

But today I looked by chance At the war news fresh from France, And written there for all the world to see, Was the name of that old town, And a boy with eyes of brown, And I read—he gave his life for you and me.

I can see the schoolhouse red, Where he'd draw me on his sled, Across the icy fields in days gone by. I can hear his laugh so gay, And close to the fields in May, Or fishing in the brook with rod and fly.

But today so far away From those scenes of childhood's play, He gave his all for home and liberty.

While we who loved him well, Through our tears will proudly tell How he put the home town on the map to stay.

HEALTH AND HAPPINESS

Why Your Eyes Really May Appear to See Ghosts That Never Exist.

By DR. LEONARD K. HIRSHBERG
A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins University.)

It is very likely that you always felt convinced that "seeing is believing." No matter how often or how much you cast doubt upon hearsay word of mouth, you have felt secure in your perfect eyesight. Yet "all that glitters is not gold," and optical illusions are by no means limited to sidewalk shows and dime museums.

There are legions of things all around you that your uninterested, inattentive eyes fail to see, and there are even greater multitudes of objects round about which are very real and far different from the idealistic, fanciful notions which you may have about them. For example, experimental psychologists have proved that 10,000 individual units, such as soldiers, cannot be distinguished at 1000 yards from a smooth, even, continuous, fused mass of solid and single formation.

Prof. Luckes of Cleveland has carried out experiments of the apparent distance from the eyes of men clad in red or in blue and stationed the same distance away.

Seven observers with perfect eyesight found unanimously that the individuals in red appeared to be closer and those in blue seemed to be much farther away. By the use of screens, with apertures called artificial pupils, the effect could be reversed or annulled.

Men and animals stationary at 1000 yards may be wholly ignored. The instant, however, that they are in motion, even the nodding of a head or the waving of a hand, easily may be distinguished.

The man who is color blind and fuses red and green, not only has fewer perfect vision for reading, writing and arithmetic, but may advance very far in the intellectual and commercial world and yet be woefully wrong in his judgments, knowledge, tastes and opinions upon almost every subject in the universe.

You cannot call such persons crazy, yet their color-blindness makes them obstinately foolish and wrong, short-sighted and full of false judgments.

Look at colored ribbons in daylight and then at night. Prof. Arps describes experiments which show that red, green and yellow goods matched in light and the brightness do not remain matched when the illumination is lowered or even when their relative positions with respect to the center of vision are changed.

Another experimental psychologist, Prof. P. F. Swindle, tells in the American Journal of Psychology how you "see" some things, which are non-existent. Just as there are opposite colors, so there are after-images of things and events. In other words, when you see a red dish and shut your eyes you will see a green one; if you see a black spoon and quickly close your eyes you will see a white one.

If you pass from a brightly lighted room, full of guests in black dress to a dark and empty one your after-image will be the reverse of what you first saw. White objects and dresses will, so there are after-images. The same effect appears as if you closed your eyes.

Prof. Swindle says that slight changes of illumination may reverse such after-images a long time afterward and with startling vividness. This observation is applied by him in an ingenious manner to explain the traditional ghost.

Both nocturnal and diurnal apparitions are, thus possible. The ghosts, visions, spirits and specters of night or day are thus discovered to be physical phenomena intimately linked up with the common sense of sight.

CHECK PASSER SALVADORETAKEN AFTER BATTLE

With the capture of Emory Salvadore, a man of many aliases, following a gun fight in the desert outside of San Bernardino yesterday, the authorities now have in custody one of the cleverest and most insistent check passers in the country, according to Inspector Richard McSorley, who has been endeavoring to trace the forger for nearly a year, since he victimized many Oakland merchants of several thousand dollars.

Salvadore operated in Oakland last November under the names of H. A. Santerre, J. E. Harrison, J. C. Sterling, R. E. Borden, R. E. Brown, J. E. Edwards and other aliases. The police were close upon his trail, but he slipped out of town after a series of rapid check-passing operations. The next that the police heard of him was following his escape from the county jail at El Paso, where he was serving a sentence for an attempted statutory crime which involved an El Paso woman. The descriptions sent out were identical here and the police, with the assistance of the Burns detective agency, again took up the trail.

SALVADORE EVASDES TRAPS.
Salvadore was next heard from at Portland, Ore., where the city was flooded with his checks under his old aliases. Two weeks ago the police were alerted that their quarry was on his way from Portland to Oakland in a new high-powered auto. Traps were set for him, but he reached Sacramento without being captured and proceeded south to San Bernardino on his way to Arizona. With him at the time of his arrest was a young woman.

According to a reliable source, San Bernardino today Salvadore put up a strenuous battle with the posse that pursued him into the desert. He only surrendered after his ammunition for automatic rifles and revolvers gave out. He is now in the San Bernardino jail, held pending decision as to where he will be taken for further prosecution. He is said to be wanted in many large cities outside of the Pacific coast.

POSES AS SANTIAGO.
When Salvadore was captured, he posed as H. A. Santerre, an official of the Leslie-Judge Publishing Company. Santerre is an official of the company in the East. His method was to present large drafts on a bank at Jacksonville, Fla., on Saturday afternoon at the downtown stores and make purchases to receive change.

Among the business concerns swindled were S. N. Wood, Maxwell's, Marymont & Upright, Lynn Stanley and many other places. For a time the forger lived at the Alamo Hotel under the name of Sterling. In Portland he is alleged to have passed checks for $100,000 to $200,000. His operations during the last year are estimated by the police to aggregate more than $25,000.

HUNS TO DESTROY SHIPS IN SPAIN

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain, Sept. 7.—Regarding the rumors that the German navy intended to blow up ships interned rather than let Spain confiscate them, it was learned today that the report emanated from a responsible source.

A telegram was discovered, sent by the German consul to the German embassy in Madrid, asking instructions regarding complete destruction. It was assumed the intent was destruction of vessels. The telegram inquired concerning the desirability of giving chief engineers necessary orders and recommended "explosive bombs with time fuses," for the work.

Water Shortage Probe Is Ready Struggles of Early Companies Falling Off in Supplies Is Shown

Intelligent opinion as to whether the Eastbay Water Company has met its responsibility to give service and provide wisely against the occurrence of such a water famine as that under which the Eastbay cities are suffering cannot be formulated without some understanding of the physical plant of which this company became the administrator when it was organized just twenty months ago.

Members of the State Railroad Commission have informally signified that they will probe into the question as to whether foresight was exercised by the officials of the company to prepare against such an emergency as that which brought curtailment of irrigation and absolute water famine in some districts. Engineers of the Railroad Commission are at present investigating the manner in which the company prepared for this summer's known needs, and what is being done to get the water supply near to normal as possible. When the Railroad Commission enters next week upon this probe, the members of the commission, the attorneys and special counsel representing the cities and the experts who will testify will have a background of information and understanding as to what this physical property is, and how it has grown, and will be able to judge the merits of the explanations given on that basis. The following brief survey aims to place the information in the hands of the consumers and taxpayers who are vitally interested in this public hearing.

PATRONS ARE SCATTERED.
The Eastbay Water Company serves communities and industries strung like beads upon a line some thirty-five miles long, stretching from Alameda and Lake Chabot on the north to Alameda county, to Pinole, Hercules and Glendale on the south. The average width of this thirty-five-mile strip is about two miles. It bulges out to a width of some five miles in Central Oakland, and narrows down to the sparsely settled areas to less than half a mile.

The physical properties serving this string of communities, the result of the activities of fifteen or more companies and corporations which have come into being in the past fifty-three years, have fought long and hard to develop, by hook or by crook, and have been consolidated, combined or absorbed until they have all got together in one corporation.

One reason has been that much of the plant has been developed in a way it would not have been developed had it been under one head. The beginning and end of the plan was to develop out to meet the growing needs of the communities as they arose.

It is perhaps a better, in some instances, than there was developed by competition among groups and pairs of these companies.

DEVELOPED IN COMPETITION.
The result has been that pumping station, upon which the Eastbay cities are depending today for the greater part of their supplies, all the present water being from under-ground sources, developed by the old Oakland Water Company to compete with the Contra Costa Water Company, and came into the possession of the Contra Costa only after our years of rate war, during which Oakland enjoyed lower water rates than it had before, or since.

The normal sources of supply up to the time when the present emergency drove the company to abandon pumping from Lake Chabot, and to develop the new sources, were the Contra Costa and the Eastbay.

Source	Daily Draft	Gallons
Lake Chabot	7,650,000
Lake Temescal	330,000
Alameda wells	5,720,000
Fitchburg wells	820,000
San Pablo, No. 1	300,000
San Pablo, No. 2	620,000
Richmond wells	280,000

Electrician tunnel	10,000
Intercounty tunnel	10,000
Shepard Canyon	60,000
Atter Canyon	20,000
San Francisco	250,000

This makes a total daily average of close to 18,000,000 gallons, but it can be seen from an inspection of the list that the only large sources are Alameda wells and Lake Chabot. Lake Chabot is now supplying nothing, Lake Temescal nothing, and there is a sharp falling off in the production from the wells in Wildcat and other hill supplies. The small canyon supplies have also

TWO WILSONS ARE ANGLED IN BOMB NET

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—Macley Hoyne, state's attorney, has dropped a bomb at his own into the hunt for the man who placed the federal building death bomb, and hence today there are two Wilsons held as the guilty man.

Members of the federal authorities arrested one Harry Wilson, known to the police as a bomb maker. Federal authorities still hold John W. ("Shorty") Wilson, "Big Bill" Haywood's secretary, as the guilty I. W. W. who did the act.

Meanwhile the last chapter in the event which is believed to have caused the bombing outrage has been written and Haywood, the boss of the I. W. W., with the ninety-six others convicted with him, are today on their way to Fort Leavenworth to serve varying terms imposed upon them by Judge K. M. Landis for their anti-war activities. They were taken to their train under heavy guard last night, surrounded by secrecy, to avoid further demonstration by sympathizers.

Together with the second Wilson, Hoyne's men arrested Mrs. Nina Van Zant Spies, widow of August Spies, who changed in connection with the Haymarket riot of thirty years ago. It was at her house that Wilson was found.

While it is apparent that federal and police authorities are not in harmony in the hunt for the guilty, the attempt on the federal building, practically every I. W. W. enthusiast and pro-German agitator in the city is being rounded up as a result of the dual investigation. Hoyne is as confident of the evidence against his Wilson as federal authorities are of the testimony against "Big Bill" Haywood. Out of one camp or the other it is expected someone will be eventually convicted.

PETITION MAY BE ILLEGALLY FILED

City Clerk L. W. Cummings and Deputy City Attorney John J. Carlo are endeavoring today to figure out the legalities pertaining to a petition filed by the Health Club, the Police Protection League, the Municipal Civil Service Employees' Association, requesting that the city council place on the ballot at the November election a proposition to amend the charter which would affect the city employees. The proposed amendments are in opposition to those adopted at the primary election.

Whether the petition is considered as filed under the city charter provisions for the state constitution amendments is a matter of concern. The petition contains 850 signatures, which attorneys for the proponents say is the percentage required as estimated on the last city election. If the city election is taken as the basis for the petition, then there are sufficient names to carry the matter to a referendum.

But City Clerk Cummings contends that the petition should contain the vote cast for names based upon the recorded general election. In that case, there are not enough signatures to the question as filed, and it is a further question whether an amended petition could be filed under the constitutional provisions.

Autos to Crash for Native Sons

A startling feature of the Administration Day celebration in Oakland will be the head-on collision in mid-air between two racing automobiles at Idora Park, promptly at 3:30 o'clock Monday afternoon.

This thriller has been aptly called "The Supreme Spectacle." It will be staged in the stadium and will be free to Idora visitors. Two autos will race down inclines from opposite ends of the stadium, and at the height of twenty feet, attain a height of twenty feet and crash together head-on.

Daring drivers, "Suicide" Ed. Dooley and Jack Riga, will guide the cars to destruction. Both will jump to safety as the cars leap skyward.

This spectacle has never before been staged. It has required the expert knowledge of engineers to figure out the problem of arranging the stunt so that the autos will crash head-on.

Torn Bills Found Near Death Scene

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 7.—Torn bits of United States currency have been found near the spot where the body of Dr. John Lephalak was discovered shot through the head on the Halfmoon Bay road on August 30. With this discovery all theories that the physician was robbed before or after death have been given up by the authorities of San Mateo county.

The suicide theory is now generally accepted by friends and relatives in the face of almost overwhelming evidence that Lephalak carefully planned his own destruction.

Torn bits of $5 bills were found in the underbrush about 200 yards from where the body lay and along the road where scores of small scraps of personal papers and candy have been picked up from time to time since the tragedy.

The discovery was made by a band of searchers headed by Dr. Heubert Hill, office associate of Dr. Lephalak; F. T. Finch, attorney for Mrs. Lephalak; Deputy Sheriff William Hogan and half a dozen others. The search will be continued today, as a watch valued at $300, a chain worth $60 and two rings held at $50 still are missing.

Wife of Sailor Charges Landlady

Complaint was made to the police neutrality bureau yesterday by Mrs. R. Campbell, wife of a sailor, who lived in apartments owned by Miss Long A. Sanford at 1957 Franklin street. Mrs. Campbell reported that she was threatened with ejection.

An investigation resulted in the discovery that the landlady had made alleged seditious utterances and she was hated before Captain Brown, who is seeking a complaint in the courts.

MOTOR PARTY ROARS AWAY TO YOSEMITE

They're off. The big motor caravan has started on its pilgrimage to the Yosemite Valley. Big cars and little cars, brave cars and gallant cars, cars that cost a fortune and cars that cost a nickel, all are happily camouflaged in brand new shining paint, piloted by their owners, assembled this morning before the TRIBUNE building and when the starter gave the signal at 7 o'clock the trail of automobiles began on the first of the Big Oak Road.

All along the line the procession will be joined by motorists with a big party awaiting the arrival of the time schedule will bring the Oakland and San Francisco representatives into Merced at 11:15 a. m. with luncheon at El Capitan hotel. The route will be made at Wawona, which will be made at Merced, Bar and Chowchilla grade. Glacier Point will be reached at noon tomorrow in time for luncheon.

The tour will be a day of the entertainment and supper which will follow the arrival at Camp Curry tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. Merced, the first of the tour, will be left free to continue their exploration of the valley or return home as fancy dictates. Many are planning to make a one-day run on Monday over the Big Oak Road, Tioga Pass, Wawona and the Mariposa Big Tree route are attracting others.

The tour has been arranged by The Oakland Tribune for the benefit of motorists of California with unusual low-priced accommodations offered the party along the route. The tour was planned by Chevrolet car leaving Oakland at 7 a. m., marking the road with the TRIBUNE arrows.

Tom Mix, the foremost delineator of virile Western roles, has always craved a life of excitement and adventure. When but a mere lad he roamed the great Canadian Northwest as one of the daring, fearless mounted police. An outstare to produce the required realism on one end of the country to the United States Army and saw action in the Philippines and on the Mexican border.

To break the monotony between times, he punched cattle on his father's ranch in Arizona.

The result of his experience is fully realized in his screen work. He brings the bread of the prairie, the chill of the Northwest, the torridness of the

MONSEN SEES DARK FUTURE FOR MEXICO

Three hundred people went to Mexico last night with Frederick Monsen, lecturer, fellow of the Royal Geographical Society, to study Mexican life as it is, and view the problem that faces not only Mexicans, but the people and governments of the United States, England and France, in the working out of a destiny for the great population of the southern republic and interesting billions of dollars worth of interest of foreigners in that country.

Not literally did they go to Mexico, but by reason of the intensive knowledge of the subject possessed by the lecturer, and by reason of the wonderful portraiture of Mexican life in the pictures thrown upon the screen, they were enabled to view the country and the problem quite as well as could be done in weeks of travel.

LECTURES AT SCHOOL.

The lecture was at the Franklin school, Ninth avenue and East Sixteenth street, one of the six centers at which every Friday night under the auspices of the lecture department of the Board of Education, in charge of Professor H. S. Wheeler, lectures are given for the benefit of parents and other adults.

The board in offering these lectures attempts to give the public some additional return on the $5,000,000 investment in school grounds and buildings, and quite successfully.

CHIEFS ARE NUMEROUS.

The speaker told his audience that there are as many heads of the Mexican nation as there are governors and generals in the country. The only way President Carranza is able to get along is by allowing the governor of each state and each general in his army to do as he individually pleases. The resultant situation is chaos, and the government is a mockery. There is no money with which to pay the soldiers on the national debt, and no prospect of realizing the principal unless the creditor countries at the close of the European war take matters into their own hands and regulate and rule the country.

He said that while the American habit of mind is to believe that other people are actuated by the same motives and high ideals as our own, Englishmen and French have no such Utopian outlook, and he predicted that with the aid of the present administration, England and France burdened with debt, they will demand of Mexico that they keep the obligation of not only paying the bill of the present administration, but allowing profitable operation of other billions of industrial, agricultural and mineral investment there.

SAYS U. S. MUST CONTROL.

The Mexican government as organized will be in all likelihood unable to meet the requirements, and it will develop upon the United States, in defense of its American policy, to go into Mexico with strength sufficient to control the situation and meet the need.

The speaker told of many exciting and interesting incidents of his travel there. At one time he engaged Pancho Villa as a guide into the mountains. On the way he met a stranger who took sufficient interest in his well-being to ask him if he knew who his guide was. When told that Villa was a bandit who lived by brigandage, Monsen handed to Villa the money he had and asked him to keep it and pay the expenses, allowing the investigator all his time for study. By doing so, he got along well and safely and with a valuable assistant in the enterprise.

Hun Supply Shortage Suggested in Tin Hat

Delaware, O., Sept. 11.—An indication of the shortage of supplies in the German ranks is given by a German helmet received here from Thomas J. Hanna, of this city, who is with the A. E. F. in France. The helmet, which was that of a private, had several German names and dates written on the inside, indicating that the tin derby had been worn by several different soldiers, passing along as the various owners were killed or wounded.

SHIPBUILDERS TO RECEIVE TRIBUNE TROPHY TOMORROW

Theater Party Will Mark Bestowal of Prize to Labor

CLIP THE COUPON!
In order that no union man or his family may be overlooked in the matter of tickets to the big show and presentation of The TRIBUNE trophy to the shipyard laborers tomorrow morning, The TRIBUNE will print, tomorrow morning, a free admission coupon. Clip this out—it will admit you and your family, if you didn't happen to get tickets in the general distribution.

Tomorrow's the Day!
Tomorrow the shipbuilders of Oakland at their great theater party at the Oakland T. and D. will receive The TRIBUNE trophy, offered by The TRIBUNE for the union best exemplifying labor's war work in the Labor Day parade, and won by Shipyard Laborers' Local No. 15430.

The trophy will be presented to President E. C. Carroll of the union, who will receive it in behalf of the workers, by Mayor John D. Dagie, who will accept it from The TRIBUNE management for presentation to the men. Mayor Dagie was made an honorary member of the union on the day of the parade.

A great special program will be featured, to which every union man, his family and friends have been invited by The TRIBUNE and the theater. The program will start at 10:30 o'clock. Tickets are being distributed at the headquarters of the Shipyard Laborers in the Labor Temple, at the shipyards, and at The TRIBUNE business office, 13th and Franklin streets. The shipyard laborers have been called by President Carroll to assemble at the Labor Temple tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock, wearing their uniform caps, and they will march in a body to the theater escorted by the Union Iron Works band. The Moore Shipyard band will play as one of the features of the program in the theater.

PROGRAM ELABORATE.

The program will be one crammed with items of interest. The famous Alita Peters Wright dancers will be seen in their latest spectacle. Mrs. Wright is shortly to establish a dancing school, similar to the famous Denishawn, at the Hotel Oakland, and the best of her former pupils, now widely known in the theater, will appear in the dances tomorrow.

An added attraction is made possible through the courtesy of the Kinema theater, for Manager Emil Kerschman has donated the use of the great two-reel feature, "The Bridge of Ships" for the union men's affair. This will be especially interesting to the union men, for it deals with their own workday and even depicts some of Oakland's shipbuilding. Many a union man may see himself in the film masterpiece. This picture, issued by the government, shows every phase of shipbuilding in America.

Many notables in union labor circles will be present. Among them will be W. E. Castro, the man who organized the Shipyard Laborers' Union, and officers of the different shipyards.

Emma De Liere, the famous singer, and Rush Ford, eminent baritone, will play on the celebrated T. and D. organ, and the new official war pictures, first time shown in Oakland, and showing the American boys in France, will be offered for the union men whose ships make it possible for the soldiers on the screen to successfully wage their battles for Freedom.

The full program for the morning is as follows:

1. "Star Spangled Banner" from "Aida," Allen Lane.
3. Build a Rainbow in the Sky, "All Half-Past Nine," "Hindustan."
4. Rush Ford, eminent baritone.
5. Anna Peters Wright's rhythmic dances.
6. "My Own United States," Allen Lane.
7. Alexander Bevan, community singing.
8. Selections by Moore Shipyard band.
9. Presentation of TRIBUNE trophy to Mayor Dagie by management of The TRIBUNE, and presentation of trophy by Mayor Dagie to President E. C. Carroll of Shipyard Laborers' Local No. 15430. Response by President Carroll.

CALL IS ISSUED.

The official call, issued by the president of the union to the shipbuilders to participate in the big event, and giving instruction for the parade of the workers, is as follows:

"Turn out, Shipyard Laborers!"

"All members of the shipyard laborers' local 15430, are requested to appear at the Labor Temple with parade caps on Sunday, September 8, promptly at 10 a. m., to march in the parade."

The trophy offered by The Oakland TRIBUNE for the best display illustrative of labor's part in the great war shown in the big Labor Day parade will be presented to the Shipyard Laborers' Union, and officers of the different shipyards.
